NAHU Hosts 92nd Annual Convention in Austin, Texas

Healthcare agents and brokers gather in person to learn, develop and network

AUSTIN, Texas (June 25) -- The National Association of Health Underwriters (NAHU) is hosting its 92nd Annual Convention June 25-28 in Austin, Texas. Health insurance professionals from across the country have gathered in person and via livestream for a productive, innovative meeting.

This premier industry event focuses on training health insurance professionals on how to adapt to the ever-changing regulations of the healthcare industry while providing opportunities for networking and professional development.

"The COVID-19 pandemic has revealed just how important it is for Americans and their families to have access to quality health coverage and care," said Janet Trautwein, CEO of NAHU. "This year's convention will equip agents and brokers with the tools they need to continue serving their clients to the best of their ability.

"Our theme, 'The Power of Story,' will underscore a series of discussions about how professionals can harness their personal narratives to achieve greater levels of success. To that end, the convention will feature a collection of fantastic speakers, from leaders in the health insurance industry to award-winning journalists and best-selling authors. We want this message to help our attendees feel empowered and uplifted as they navigate new challenges in the healthcare space."

The convention's 25 breakout sessions cover a range of topics, from key health policy issues like Medicare Advantage trends and debates around price transparency to professional guidance around the "Great Resignation" and preventing burnout.

In addition to these panels and presentations, the convention includes a "NAHU Marketplace" expo that showcases innovative new products and services that can provide value to any agent or broker.
